Bobby. And all the animals went into the ark 'cept the dog. Elsie. Why didn't the dog go in, too? Bobby. 'Cause he had a bark of his own.
 One rat will eat or spoil four bushels of grain a year. It cost $1 or $3 a year to feed a rat on your place.

Message of War Comes Says Woodrow Wilson

Washington, Jan. 31.—In a message to the nation's farmers delivered today to an agricultural conference at Urbana, Ill., President Wilson said he thought statesmen on both sides of the water realized that the culminating crisis of the war had come and this year's achievements would decide it.
 The message, which the president intended to present personally until attacked by a cold several days ago, was delivered by President James of the University of Illinois. Recounting the aggressions of Germany, the president said:
 "We are fighting therefore as truly for the liberty and self government of the United States as of the war of our own revolution and to be fought over again; and every man in every business in the United States must know by this time that his whole future fortune lies in the balance.
 Our national life and our whole future development will be under the sinister influence of foreign control if we do not win. We must win, therefore, we shall win.
 We need not ask to pledge your lives and fortunes with those of the rest of the nation to the accomplishment of this great end."
 The president recalled that farmers fired the first shots at Lexington that set aflame the American Revolution for liberty and expressed the hope and belief that American farmers now will willingly and conspicuously stand by to win this war. He said the farmers did not want themselves exempted from military service as a class but that the attention of the war department was centered upon the risk of interfering with farm labor as little as possible and he believed that in the next draft the farmers would find their labor much less seriously drawn upon than in the first.

Clio Company's License Revoked; Hoarding Charge

Washington, Jan. 30.—The license of the Clio Oil & Fertilizer Co., of Clio, S. C., has been revoked and the concern ordered to close up its business not later than February 6, the food administration announced today.
 "Speculation in, and hoarding cottonseed," is the reason given for the order, and it was announced that as all of the company's products are manufactured from cottonseed, which is under license, it will be unable to operate even as a fertilizer manufacturer.
 The company had on hand 3,000,000 pounds of cottonseed, and had been operated only two and a half days in the past year, according to statistics brought out at a hearing before the federal food administration for South Carolina.
 The company was ordered to announce above reasonable needs for a reasonable length of time," and was taken as "clear proof that the seed was being hoarded for speculative purposes."

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTE

YOU'LL enjoy this real Burley cigarette. It's full of flavor—just as good as a pipe.

IT'S TOASTED

The Burley tobacco is toasted; makes the taste delicious. You know how toasting improves the flavor of bread. And it's the same with tobacco exactly.
